ABOUT AYIC

The ASEAN Youth Initiative Conference invites youth enthusiasts all around the world to discuss each specific issue from the SDGs perspective. Ideas and actions are needed to drive the achievement of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). We believe that young actors and global youths' actions need a platform to discuss from various and many unique perspectives in conveying and elaborating their aspirations related to Sustainable Development Goals, specifically to solve many circulating problems that exist in ASEAN countries.

AYIC was created as a platform to meet, discuss and initiate resolutions regarding ASEAN issues through the perspective of SDGs. The conference started first in 2016 and this year, the sixth AYIC will bring a new vision and experience, with the theme "A Sustainable Resilient and World Recovery after Pandemic."

OBJECTIVES

Increasing youth's awareness of global issues,
and the resolution to solve them

Provide a platform of discussion and interaction for the youth to expand their network and broaden their knowledge on international issues.

Improving youth's capabilities in critical thinking and problem solving ideas.

GRAND THEME OF AYIC 2022

Youth Action for a sustainable resilient and ASEAN recovery after pandemic

Future progress is strongly influenced by youth, the pillars of change. As a pillar of change, youth also have a significant role in rising from the Covid-19 pandemic. When Covid 19 ended, many sectors were affected, and it was not young people who remained silent. Youth holds the key to change for the better to create sustainable resilience and ASEAN recovery after the pandemic. AYIC exists as a forum where the younger generation can develop ideas and formulate policies in the form of suitable solutions that include elements of sustainability. To improve the skills of determining delegates, AYIC prepares delegates to make a policy that acts as a solution to recovery efforts after the pandemic. In the form of company ESG recommendations, Sustainable Business Plan Recommendations, and Community Development Recommendations. Which of the briefs will present practitioners and executors so that it will be helpful as a form of realization in responding to post-pandemic challenges.

SDG 3

Telemedicine: Opportunities and Developments after Covid-19 Pandemic

Telemedicine is a technological innovation from the health sector. The latest survey by HKTDC Research in 2021 shows a number of telemedicine platforms and how the use of telemedicine in ASEAN increased rapidly during the COVID-19 pandemic. Since people were taught to maintain social distancing, telemedicine is considered as an effective system in connecting patients with medical personnel. Therefore, telemedicine is a case management strategy that can continue to be used even after the COVID-19 pandemic.

However, people in rural areas are still being excluded from their access to telemedicine platforms. Other than that, telemedicine has ethical and legal issues despite its advantages. Telemedicine requires special rules to ensure professional responsibility, patient data privacy, quality of care, ongoing cost issues, and confidentiality. These challenges require a strong commitment and an effective regulation so that telemedicine platforms can be accessed inclusively by people from all ASEAN member countries.

SDG 4

Building A Responsive Education on Gender, Disability, and Marginalized Communities Post Covid-19 Pandemic

Education is a fundamental right, yet in times of conflict and disaster it is often significantly disrupted, denying millions of girls and boys the opportunity to have a good quality and safe education. Millions of children miss school each year due to war, natural catastrophes, and pandemics, and the number is growing. (UNESCO, 2017).

The most affected communities because of Covid-19 pandemic that makes the situation even worse for education activities were the marginal groups such as girls and children with disabilities. Girls don't have equal access compared to boys, because in general families prioritize the eldest child in the family and boys to go to school. The emergency education infrastructure provided has been taken into account, but some facilities are not yet disability-friendly. One of the main reason for bridging the gaps between those groups is to preserve education throughout emergency, conflict, and post-conflict conditions, therefore as the change makers, young people have important roles to address challenges in the field of education. Thus, this chamber encourages young people to discuss possible solutions in making an inclusive education system in ASEAN.

SDG 8

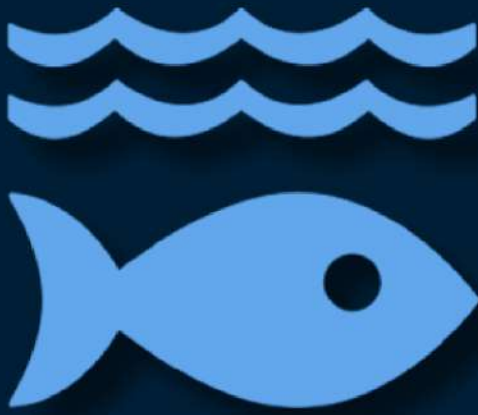

Tackling the slowdown in economic growth in ASEAN after pandemic covid-19

The Covid-19 pandemic has disrupted the economic growth of many countries. In 2020, ASEAN experienced 7.8 percent of labor income loss due to the pandemic. Policies have been made by the government to avoid a massive slowdown in the economy.

Economic recovery requires strong commitment from many countries. However, the plans to recover economic growth are being challenged by numbers of international issues, one of which is the the Russia-Ukraine conflict.

Russia's invasion of Ukraine has caused volatility in food and energy prices. Rising energy and food prices will increase global inflation, disrupting the global economic recovery, including ASEAN. Youth are encouraged to make initiatives to tackle the challenges in the economic growth.

SDG 14

Raising Awareness On How Plastic Debris Harms Marine Life

Plastics are chemically stable and they can exist in the environment for hundreds of years or longer. Many people use plastic due to ease of manufacturing, stable chemical properties, low cost, and good water resistance, plastic production has been steadily increasing every year. Nowadays, plastic waste such as plastic bags on land is washed by rain and wind, and the plastic bags flow into the marine environment through rivers, which causes marine plastic pollution.

According to the United Nations, at least 800 species worldwide are affected by marine debris, and 80 percent of the litter is plastic. 13 million metric tons of plastic are estimated to end up in the oceans every year. Seabirds, fish, sea turtles, and marine mammals can become entangled in or ingest plastic debris, this can cause suffocation, starvation (because they can't move freely), and drowning. Many marine biotas mistakenly eat plastic as their food. Some starve after doing so, mistakenly believing they have eaten enough because their stomachs are full. Plastics are estimated to take up to hundreds of years before they fully decompose, some of the plastics break down much quicker into tiny particles, which in turn end up in the seafood we eat. This problem not only affects marine life, but also humans.
